OUR TIMBER GROWTH.

Is Magnificent—Sketches 100 Miles Along the Columbia River.

No Timber in the East can at all Compare with it.

Taking the cue from all good millwrights who visit Chicago, says the San Francisco Journal of Commerce, Mr. George H. Patullo, of South Bay City, Michigan, slid up the elevator leading to this office on Thursday. His rugged countenance looked as though he had braved a severe winter, and he said he had. "I am on my way home from British Columbia," he remarked, "where I have been building two mills for the Canadian Pacific Railroad Company. Out there some of the time the thermometer marked forty-four degrees below zero. The snow was four feet deep, and not far from us it was ten feet. But it would surprise you how bearable such weather is up there. The mills are at work for the construction department of the company. It is no trick to get trees from which

and 16x16 inches at the small end can be cut. The principal kinds of timber are red fir, called Douglas pine, and spruce. No; no knots to speak of. They open out as clear as a quill. You can safely say there is a big chance there for somebody to do a good lumber business. The timber is magnificent. It stretches along the west shore of the Columbia river for 100 miles, four to six miles wide. No timber that is cut in the district east of there can compare with it. I was over at the plant of the Bow River Lumber Company, at Calgary, in the Northwest Territories, and that company is selling comparatively

POOR LUMBER AT FROM $30 TO $40 A THOUSAND.

Making money? I should suggest they are. Shingles so poor that I should not like to furnish enough nails to put them on with, are worth $5 a thousand. Price of that good timber? It is owned by the Canuck government, and I have not heard of but one proposition to sell. That was $3 an acre, or 75 cents stumpage. It is dirt cheap, and if my pocket was long enough I should have made myself a timber baron sure. You see the plains east must be supplied from those western forests; and as I have said, this is the only good timber in that section. I felt around one of the officials of the road, and he said lumber manufacturers, when they came, would be fairly dealt with. He thought a rate of $6 a thousand would be made to Calgary, a distance of 11 miles. I don't think that would be bad for a "blarsted" monopoly. Yes, the country is

GOOD FOR SOMETHING BESIDES LUMBER.

For grazing it is first-class. Major Walker of the Bow river company, showed me cattle—daisies, too—that had run out for four years. The Indians brought us down from the north some of the finest potatoes I ever saw. Oh, yes; the Indians are kind of raising the deuce now. The rebellion will put a quietus on things in that section for this season perhaps. There is an additional cost for grub, but outside of that it doesn't cost much more to manufacture lumber here than there. A sawyer gets $3.50 and found. The common hands are from Minneapolis and Chicago. I don't know but I ought to say, too, that the roller skating craze has gone out in that country. They have rinks at Calgary. Medicine Hat and elsewhere. You can't deprive them of the luxuries of life if they are out in the wilderness." And Mr. Patullo started off looking for another sawmill to build.

Northwest Affairs in the Commons.

In the House of Commons on the 9th inst., Mr. Lester enquired of the government if any steps had been taken with a view to the extradition of Gabriel Dumont, and if so, what has been done toward that end? If no such steps have been taken, is it the intention of the government to apply for his extradition? Sir John Macdonald said, in reply, that it was not usual to notify political felons of the steps that were being taken to secure their punishment.

Mr. Casgrain then asked: Have any particular acts of valor on the part of volunteers been brought under notice, and is it the intention of the government to recommend any of the soldiers to the home government for the Victoria cross or any other reward?

Sir John replied by saying that the question of rewarding volunteers was a purely military affair. Sir John moved that the house go into committee of the whole on the question of providing for an increase in the Northwest police to 1000 men. He said an increased force was necessary to protect the ranches and settlers from the depredations of marauders from Montana. After a sharp discussion the resolution was passed.

Canada's Debt.

An official statement has just been published at Ottawa showing the net amount of the public debt of Canada on May 31, 1885, to be $191,886,199; gross amount of public debt on the same date, $208,711,080; government notes in circulation or in the hands of Canadian banks on May 31, 1885, $14,998,315; and held by the government upon that date, $2,387,707; floating and unfunded debt of Canada, same date, $62,214,625; sum of money of loans, negotiable by virtue of acts of Parliament heretofore passed, authorizing the government to borrow money which remains unborrowed on May 31, 1885, $4,805,181.

Gen. Grant.

The latest accounts from Mount McGregor, N. Y., as to the condition of Gen. Grant are to the effect that the brave warrior is gradually sinking, and that the end if not far off. The Gen. has full knowledge of this, and that knowledge will at all times be a back ground against what may appear to be temporary changes for the better or worse, to arouse public interest, but such changes cannot at any time deceive the sick man, nor obviate the certainty that dissolution is drawing near.

Two Valuable Calves.

The money taken from I. N. Hibbs was all United States currency, and the number and denominations of the bills were as follows: 38 $100 bills, 61 $50, 3 $500, 104 $20, and 1 $10, besides some smaller bills and coin of this realm. Most of the above notes were found industriously fabricated into false calves around the pedal extremities of the culprit. Possibly they retarded his locomotive power and thus landed him in captivity.

THE WIDE WORLD.

THIS DAY'S DESPATCHES.

The Liberal Ministers Still Retain their Benches.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, June 19.—The Liberal leaders have not yet given to the Conservatives any pledge of assistance in the conduct of the government. The Privy Council meeting was not held to-day at Windsor Castle, for the formal transfer of ministry, since the Liberals will retain their old benches when Parliament meets this afternoon.

Excitement in London.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, June 19.—Great crowds of people throng the streets in the neighborhood of Parliament House. The out pouring of people to-day was greater by far than at any time since the beginning of the present crisis in public affairs. The police have great difficulty in keeping the entrances to the houses of parliament clear.

War with Russia not Desired.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, June 19.—There was another conference of the Conservatives this morning. As heretofore all present were pledged to secrecy. The Marquis of Salisbury, in an open letter, writes that the imputation that the Conservatives desire war with Russia is ridiculous. The necessity for such a letter some Conservatives say is due entirely to the recent secret conference of the leaders of the party.

THE COLLIERY EXPLOSION.

One Hundred and Forty Persons Killed—Forty-five Bodies Recovered.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, June 19.—It is now known that over one hundred and forty persons were killed by the explosion in the Pendlebury colliery near Manchester yesterday. The chamber in which the explosion occurred is so filled with debris that thus far only forty-five bodies have been recovered.

LONDON, June 18.—A terrible explosion took place to-day in the Pendlebury colliery, near Manchester. Sixty persons have been rescued alive, and seven dead bodies recovered. Hundreds of miners are still below, and there is only faint hope that any of these can be saved.

The cages in which the volunteers were descending got stuck in the shaft, and it was two hours before the party could get to work. The rescued state that when the explosion occured they fled to the bottom of the shaft and they are ignorant of the fate of their companions.

Another account of the colliery explosion near Manchester says it occurred in the Clifton colliery. There were 350 men at work at the time. One hundred and twenty were taken out, but 230 are still imprisoned and it is feared that most of them will perish.

Later dispatches from Manchester say the explosion was caused by fire damp. There were working in the mine at the time it occurred 349 miners. One hundred and sixty of these were at work in the level in which the explosion occurred. They are still in the mine and cannot be reached owing to the masses of coal thrown down by the explosion and which closed their means of exit. The 120 men before reported rescued were taken out before noon.

Up to half past 2 o'clock this afternoon eighteen dead bodies had been recovered from the Pendlebury colliery.

A dispatch from Manchester says that one hundred additional men have been rescued from the mine, probably one hundred have been killed.

Colliery Disaster.

LONDON, June 18.—The latest dispatch from Manchester states that 204 miners have been rescued alive from Pendlebury colliery, that 22 bodies have been taken out, and that 122 men are still unaccounted for. The work of exploring is impeded by bad ventilation and water.

Another Floating Monster.

A special from London on the 16th announces that the British navy that day received an important addition in the shape of a twin-screw armor-belted ram, the Benbow, which was launched from the slip of the Thames Iron Works and Shipbuilding company. The ceremony of christening was performed by Mrs. Gladstone. The Benbow is by far the most powerful ironclad afloat. Over 10,000 tons of metal have been used in her construction. She is built entirely of steel.

The Ascot Races.

LONDON, June 18.—At Ascot to-day, the St. James Palace stakes were won by Shevalon, Ducat second and Sweet Willie third. Six starters. Race for the gold cup was won by J. Hammond's four-year old bay colt St. Gatien, F. Gebhart's Eola second, Dutchman third and Scot Free fourth. Betting at the start was 3 to 1 on St. Gatien, 9 to 1 against Eola, 14 to 1 against Scot Free. St. Gatien won in a canter by 3 lengths. Dutchman was a bad third.

Resumption of Work.

PITTSBURG, Penn., June 18.—Twenty-five mills in this city have resumed operations since the signing of the scale, and notwithstanding rumors of opposition to the conference committee's action, it is believed that three-fourths of the mills in this district will be running before the end of the week. Others will start up when repairs are completed, unless prevented by a lack of orders.

G. A. Johnson, colored, editor of the British Lion, says he has notified the government that by Dominion Day he will be ready to lead a company of 250 Canadian-born colored men to fight the rebels in the Northwest, he to pay for the uniforms and ammunition.

For calling the Conservative party a "herd" the Triunfo newspaper of Havana, has been suspended by the government for forty days.

The meed of merit for promoting personal esthetics is due to J. C. Ayer & Co., whose incomparable Hair Vigor is a universal beautifier of the hair. Harmless, effective, agreeable, it has taken rank among the indispensable articles of the toilet. To scanty locks it gives luxuriance; and withered hair it clothes with the hue of youth.

CHANGE OF GOVERNMENT

Still Doubtful if the Tories Can Assume Office.

The Seals Delivered Up.

LONDON, June 18.—Gladstone delivered up to the Queen to-day the Seals of the office of Prime Minister. The Queen gave an audience at Windsor Castle to Sir Stafford Northcote.

May Take Office Again.

LONDON, June 18.—Unexpected developments to-day in the march of events render it quite possible in the minds of many Liberals that Mr. Gladstone, however much he may be disinclined, may be compelled to take office again. It is reported that the Marquis of Salisbury demanded from the retiring Ministry a more comprehensive promise of support than they were prepared to give. It is believed by many Liberals that the visit of Gladstone to the Queen at Windsor Castle has connection with the subject of his return to office. The Conservatives on the other hand, however, have no doubt but that the Marquis of Salisbury will accept office.

A Complete Deadlock.

LONDON, June 18.—Gladstone still withholds his assurance that the Liberals will assist the Salisbury government, and the Marquis of Salisbury persists in his refusal to take office in the absence of such an assurance. The result is a complete deadlock.

Assurance of Partial Support.

LONDON, June 18.—It is stated that at a meeting of the Liberal leaders it was decided to give the Conservatives an assurance of partial support. This will not satisfy the Marquis of Salisbury, and it is not likely that he will announce his cabinet to-day, in which case Parliament adjourns until Monday. The Conservatives believe that the difficulty of reforming a Liberal cabinet will compel the Liberals to give the pledges.

The Standard says that the Liberals refuse sufficient assurance that they will not oppose business, especially the budget. Negotiations will continue, and unless the pledges be given Lord Salisbury will refuse office.

It is reported that Sir Henry Drummond Wolff will succeed Sackville West as Minister at Washington.

Distributing the Offices.

LONDON, June 18. In accordance with the agreement between the Marquis of Salisbury and other Conservatives, Sir Stafford Northcote has been appointed First Lord of the Treasury with a peerage, the Premiership remaining in the hands of Lord Salisbury. For the Premier not to assume the duties of First Lord of the Treasury is unusual. Mr. Arthur Balfour will be President of the local government board without a seat in the Cabinet. Hon. Edward Stanhope will be Vice-President of the Council.

The Earl of Iddesight.

LONDON, June 18.—The Queen has sent Sir Stafford Northcote an autograph letter thanking him for his high services and offering him an earldom. He will assume the title of Earl Iddesight and Viscount St. Cyres.

An Earthquake.

LONDON, June 18.—The city of York was visited this forenoon by an earthquake shock which lasted several seconds and caused great alarm among the people.

Abundance of Money but More Wanted.

LONDON, June 18.—The Chinese loans have been subscribed five times over.

The Standard hears that Parnell and several followers will visit America in the autumn to raise funds for political campaigns.

Honoring Goethe.

BERLIN, June 18.—The Grand Duke of Weimar has given 200,000 marks for the formation of a Goethe Museum, and has promised another 120,000 marks towards publishing Goethe's posthumous works, consisting of numerous drawings, poems and scientific treatises in addition to his diary.

More Troops for Madagascar.

PARIS, June 18.—The French government will send a battalion of infantry to Madagascar, to reinforce the troops now there.

High Cost of the Canadian Pacific.

OTTAWA, June 17.—In the House of Commons to-day, Mr. Blake spoke upon the cost of the Canadian Pacific Railway. He charged that it had been deflected from the Mackenzie survey; that the Kicking Horse pass route was impracticable on account of snow slides; that the road had sharp curves and grades 237 feet to the mile, whereas the steepest grade on the Union Pacific was 90 feet to the mile; that in land and cash subsidies and loans the road had received aid to the amount of $138,000,000 and that the whole cost from Callander to Port Moody would not exceed $60,000,000.

The first race is to be rowed on August 8th, and an interval of two weeks is to elapse between each succeeding week. The place has not yet been agreed upon.

Shrewd Counterfeiting.

TORONTO, June 18.—A certain unknown person here has been engaged for some time in cutting up bank bills and ingeniously pasting them together so as to represent bills for a larger amount. The practice has been carried on to such an extent that banks refuse to accept mutilated bills. The police have failed to secure the guilty parties.

THE entire number of recruits for the Russian army and navy in 1885 is fixed at 230,000.

THE Czar has sanctioned the tax on coupons. The new law will go into effect July 1st.

LATEST advices represent that Kassala in the Soudan, is still holding out against the rebels.

IT is understood at Simla that a change of ministry in England will not involve any change in the position of EARL DUFFERIN as the viceroy of India.

OSMAN DIGMA's troops make attacks on Suakim nearly every night. Eleven thousand refugees have arrived at Dongola from Khartoum and Berber. The MAHDI is allowing Egyptian prisoners to depart.

A REPETITION of the terrible eruption of the volcano of Krakatas, in Java, is probable, as subterranean noises are heard and flames issue from the crater. About 30,000 or 40,000 people were destroyed by the last eruption.

HERBERT SPENCER, acknowledging the receipt of GUYOTA's "Lettres Sur Lapolitique Colonial," writes to Guyote: "I am glad you are opening the eyes of the French to the illusions that colonies are of any advantage.

THE pope has given his sanction to the decisions of the Irish bishops upon the questions submitted to them at their recent meeting in Rome, and approved the programme for the meeting of the Irish bishops soon to be held in Dublin.

DISPATCHES regarding the terrible loss of life and destruction of property by the waterspouts near Lagos, State of Jalisco, Mexico, and at Guana Juato estimate the loss of life in the Lagos district at over 200, and places the damage by the flood in Guana Juato city at $300,000.

THE St. Petersburg papers are of the opinion that the Tories will be compelled to show that they disapprove MR. GLADSTONE's policy, and express fear that the change of government will be prejudicial to the amicable arrangement between the GLADSTONE government and Russia. The Russian squadron, under orders for the Pacific, has been ordered to wait in Finland bay.

MR. PARNELL dances over the grave of the GLADSTONE ministry with great glee, and takes to himself and his followers all the glory of the result. He should not, however, allow his momentary excitement to run away with his good judgment; for under a Tory government it is more than likely that Ireland will see the day when it will remember with regret the ministry that now goes out of power. It is not to the Tories that Irishmen must look for a redress of their grievances.

THE queer story is brought from the Soudan by a Coptic merchant that the fate of GENERAL GORDON is still uncertain. The head exhibited to the Mahdi by his murderous followers as GORDON's turns out to have been that of the Austrian consul, and no trace was found of GORDON dead or alive. It is hinted as a possibility that he escaped to the south, and is in hiding somewhere among the native tribes. The story has large elements of improbability in it, but it is one the whole civilized world would be glad enough to believe.

NOTHING now remains to restore peace in all parts of the Northwest but the capture of BIG BEAR and the dispersion of his followers. GENERAL MIDDLETON with a strong force, mostly mounted men, is now in hot pursuit of the chief and his braves, while GENERAL STRANGE is scouring the country in the neighborhood of Frog Lake, the scene of the massacre of the priests, in the hope of encountering the hostiles, who are reported to have broken into two separate bands. Not more than a day or two should now elapse, until intelligence comes that the last and the most criminal of the Indian rebel chiefs has been made a prisoner.

THE GLADSTONE ADMINISTRATION.

The late British Liberal government came into power in April, 1880, after a most brilliant campaign of three weeks. When MR. DISRAELI, in the previous month, dissolved parliament, he had fully counted on the return of his party to power. His had been a remarkable administration. British supremacy had been virtually established in Egypt by the purchase of the Khedive's shares of Suez canal stock; his sovereign, through his effort, had been made Empress of India; Russia had been promptly checked at the gates of Constantinople and compelled to loosen her grasp on a large portion of the spoils of war and retreat; a confederation scheme had been devised for South Africa; English prestige had been maintained at the Berlin conference; the "scientific frontier" had been devised for India, and several serious complications abroad had been prepared. The GLADSTONE government came into power with a programme of domestic legislation and the abandonment of foreign political aggrandizement. The success of the Liberals was largely due to the magnificent personal campaign of MR. GLADSTONE, who especially declaimed against the Tory foreign policy. As Prime Minister he gathered old friends around him. He took into his Cabinet such Radicals as SIR CHARLES DILKE, MR. CHAMBERLAINE, MR. FAWCETT and MR. MUNDELLA. The new parliament, which assembled on May 20, 1880, contained 349 Liberals and 243 Conservatives, against the 351 Conservatives and 250 Liberals who made up the Commons under DISRAELI when he went into power in 1874.

The preceding ministry left MR. GLADSTONE to shoulder the Greek, Montenegrin, Transvaal and Afghanistan questions, which were still in abeyance, together with a very large complications in Egypt, where the khedive had been deposed and the British government had ridden rough-shod over Turkey's claimed suzerainty and had undertaken the management of the interests of English holders of Egyptian bonds. The ministry early addressed itself to critical Irish questions, financial reform, and reform in India; but the pending, undecided foreign questions soon loomed up to plague the new government. At the outset the disturbances in Ireland required suppression, and while legislating for the relief of Irish tenants, MR. GLADSTONE put in operation drastic coercive measures, and filled Ireland with troops to stop the acts of violence. On top of this came military operations in South Africa; in Afghanistan; in Egypt, the history of which need not be recited here. In none of these exploits did any glory accrue to the Liberals. MR. GLADSTONE's talent lies in the direction of legislation and finance, rather than in the administration of war measures and foreign matters, and in these latter directions his late ministry bungled palpably. His second ministry has, however, like his first, been distinguished by some splendid legislation of the progressive character. A second land act for Ireland has relieved not less than 30,000 tenants, and the Franchise bill has continued the work of enfranchisement begun in 1832, by giving the ballot to over 2,000,000 more persons, largely of the agricultural class. In his first ministry he had benefited Ireland by the first land act and the education act. He established the ballot; abolished the corrupt purchase of army commissions; created a supreme court of appeal; negotiated the Washington treaty and liquidated the Alabama claims; reduced taxation; disestablished the Irish Episcopal church. His first ministry came to an end simply because some members of his own party got frightened at the wide sweep of his reform measures, and thus his majority dwindled from 116 to 66. The twenty-second parliament of the United Kingdom does not close devoid of brilliant work.

The GLADSTONE ministry has been losing its grip steadily since the unfortunate issue of the Soudan campaign, and in the midst of the widespread dissatisfaction this engendered came the Afghan-Turkestan boundary complications, out of which the government was retreating through a policy of concession, which it was felt would compose only temporarily the contention with Russia. While staggering under the burden of burning foreign questions there was imposed upon MR. GLADSTONE the task of adjusting satisfactorily the ever-burning Irish question, and the renewal of the Irish crimes act became the rock on which the ministry split. The Parnellites would have every form of coercive legislation for Ireland erased from the books, and they determined to unite with the Tories to defeat the budget on its second reading unless the government complied. Had MR. GLADSTONE been able to whip in the members of his party, he might have scraped through for SIR CHARLES DILKE and MR. CHAMBERLEIN had been won over to support modified coercion, the act to extend for a year. Irishmen would have fared better had they consented to the modified act, probably; but, observing the vacancies on the Liberal benches, they rushed headlong after the opportunity, and joined by the Tories, who hate MR. GLADSTONE with a fiendish hatred, they downed him by the vote of 265 to 262 on the budget. It will be seen whether Ireland will fare as well under a Tory administration as under MR. GLADSTONE. All the precedents are against such a supposition.

By law the duration of a parliament cannot exceed seven years. In the last eighty-five years there have been twenty-two parliaments, and the average life of a parliament is about four years. Of the eleven gentlemen who have held the premiership during the reign of VICTORIA, not one, not even excepting SIR ROBERT PEEL, has done so much for the liberty and material and social welfare of England as MR. GLADSTONE, whose defeat in the midst of a critical period in English history is to be deplored; and it is now very doubtful if there is a Tory leader of any prominence who can take the helm in the present crisis and receive the confidence of the country.

THE BRITISH PREMIER.

ROBERT ARTHUR TALBOT GASCOYNE CECIL, whom QUEEN VICTORIA has summoned to form a new Cabinet, holds four degrees of rank in the peerage; Marquis of Salisbury, by patent of creation, August, 1789; Earl of Salisbury, May, 1605; Viscount Cranbourne, August, 1604; Baron Cecil, May, 1603; and he is also co-heir to the barony of Ogle. He represents ROBERT CECIL, youngest son of the well known LORD BURLEIGH, who was Secretary of State near the end of QUEEN ELIZABETH's reign, and, continued in that office by JAMES I., retained it until his death, in 1612. The present Marquis was born in 1830—a younger son. He was a member of the House of Commons from 1853 to 1868, when, his elder brother dying, he succeeded his father in the family honors and estates. In 1866 he was secretary for India in the Derby administration, but retired from office in 1867. When DISRAELI introduced his reform bill, which gave household suffrage, he objecting strenuously to this progressive measure. After this, he assailed DISRAELI bitterly in a series of articles in the Tory Quarterly Review. Notwithstanding this, in 1874 he consented to take office under DISRAELI, to the surprise of the public, as Secretary of State for India. When the complications arose between Russia and Turkey, at the close of the Turko-Servian war in 1876, SALISBURY was sent as special embassador to the SUBLIME PORTE. He arranged for the conference of the powers at Constantinople, and proposed an international supervision of proposed reforms in the Turkish provinces. The PORTE rejected the proposition, and SALISBURY went home. In 1878 he was appointed Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs in the place of LORD DERBY, who had resigned, and in that capacity he wrote the dispatch announcing the policy of the British government as to the Eastern question and Constantinople, and soon after went with DISRAELI to the Berlin conference to pluck the Turkish spoils from Russia's hands and halt the Russian banners in sight of Constantinople. For his services at Berlin the Queen invested SALISBURY with the order of the Garter. After the Tory defeat in 1880, SALISBURY was, at a meeting of the Tory peers, chosen to lead their party in the House of Lords. SALISBURY is a man of splendid education, and is considered a good speaker. He is a Jingo, and has declared very emphatically that it would be atrocious cowardice for the British government to evacuate Egypt or yield Afghanistan to Russia.

CHOLERA is a persistent traveler and can expedite its progress very much by the aid of the railway and the modern steamship facilities. The country has to depend upon the marine hospital sericve to halt the progress of cholera infected vessels and keep them from landing at our wharves or entering our ports. It is to be hoped that the officers at this port will use every effort to enforce the limited means at their disposal to prevent the possibility of its spreading in this province. In Spain it is working sad havoc, carrying away its victims by the hundred daily. It is marching westward towards France and England, from whence it is certain to reach this continent. The French sanitary authorities are notoriously careless, as was demonstrated in the case of Marseilles and other French ports last year. There are persons who think quarantine regulations are useless, but the experience of the scentific world shows that they are effective to keep out cholera. Combined with prompt disinfection, quarantine regulations are a positive good.

RECENT cable dispatches intimated that the CZAR of Russia had become an ardent admirer of the English Liberal party, and that he was in dread the Tories should obtain power at this particular juncture of affairs. It seems almost incredible that the potentate so recently bull-ragging the British government, and sending jeweled swords to Komaroff in token of his approval of that warrior's bellicose position, should suddenly become afraid to fight. Yet the change of mind may be attributed to the Czar's discovery that a job of bulging his Central Asian frontier into Afghanistan proper would not be such a facile operation as his sanguine generals have represented, taking into consideration the long purse held at London. Nevertheless, the Czar's conversion to Liberalism does not comport with the autocracy and absolutism which he deals out in his own vast domains.

IT is presumable that QUEEN VICTORIA made GEN. SIR GARNET WOLSELEY a knight of the order or St. Patrick as a kind of offset to the Czar's lavish outpouring of honors upon GEN. KOMAROFF; but there is a decided difference in the services rendered by the men. WOLSELEY's expedition to Egypt was lamentably ill-starred, and he has crept out of the Soudan bruised and bleeding, while KOMAROFF has set his masters boundary stakes a long distance forward in Central Asia.

THE introduction by the HON. MR. CHAPLEAU of the the resolution to provide for the appointment of an interpretar at a salary of $3000 a year under the provisions of the Chinese Restriction bill, at this late stage of the session is taken as an indication that the Chinese bill will be carried through ere the House adjourns.

THE English delegates to the Plenary Suez Canal Commission at Paris has been instructed to continue to oppose the French proposals for a mixed commission of surveillance and to make counter proposals to vest the supreme power and supervision in the Egyptian government assisted by a consultative board of Foreign Consuls at Cairo.

HER WAGES AS WIFE.

[Phrenological Journal.]

"Well, Nettie, what do you want?" said Mr. Jarvis to his wife, who stood looking rather anxiously at him, after he had paid the factory hands their week's wages.

"Why, Donald," said she, "I thought as I had worked for you all the week, I would come for my wages, too. You pay Jane $2 a week, surely I earn that, and I would like very much to have it as my own."

"Pshaw, Nettie, how ridiculous you talk. You know that all I have belongs to you and the children—and don't I furnish the house everything? What under the sun would you do with the money if you had it?"

"I know, Donald, that you buy the necessaries for us all, and I am willing that you should do so still, but I should like a little money of my very own. We have been married fifteen years, and in all that time I do not seem to have earned $1. As far as money is concerned I might as well be a slave. I cannot buy a quart of berries, or a book, without asking you for the money, and I should like to be a little more independent."

"You're a fine one to talk of independence," he said. "If you would start out to make your living you'd fetch up at the poorhouse soon enough, for what could you do to earn a living? The girls in the factory know how to do their work and they earn their wages. When I have paid them off my duty is done, but I have to board and clothe you, and take care of you when you are sick. If I had to do that for the girls I would have precious little money left, I can tell you."

"Donald, I gave up a good trade when I married you. For five years I had supported myself by it, and many a time since I have envied myself the purse of those days. As for my not earning anything now, I leave it to you to say whether it would be possible to hire another to take my place; and how much do you suppose it would cost to do without me a year? I know the girls have little after paying their expenses, but they enjoy that little so much. Allie Watson supports herself and mother with her wages, and they both dress better than I do. Jennie Hart is helping her father to pay the mortgage on the farm, and she is happy that she can do so. Even Jane, the kitchen girl, has more freedom than I, for out of her own money she is laying by presents for her relatives, and will send them Christmas. Yesterday an Indian woman was at the house with such handsome beadwork to sell, and, although I wanted some very much, I had not a dollar! I felt like crying when Jane bought a half a dozen of the articles I wanted so much. You often say that all you have is mine, but $5 would have given me more pleasure yesterday than your hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of property did."

"No doubt of that Mrs. Jarvis. You have no idea of the value of money, and would have enjoyed buying a lot of bead trash that would not be worth a cent to anybody. Jane needs a guardian if she fools away her money like that. She will be in the county poor-house yet if she don't look out. It's very lucky, indeed, that the men do hold the money, for there's not one woman in a hundred who knows how to use it!"

"For shame, Donald Jarvis! You know better. Look at Jerry and Milly Cregg, will you, and say that he makes the best use of his money. She is at home with her parents every night, making her wages go as far as possible toward making them comfortable, while he is carousing in the village wasting his time and money, and making a brute of himself besides. And why does Mrs. Sarton come to receive her husband's wages herself? Simply because he can not get by the saloon with money in his pocket, and if she did not get the money they would all go hungry to bed after his wages were paid. And I believe that every woman who earns money here, spends it as wisely as the average man, and I have yet to hear of one of them being in debt."

Mr. Jarvis knew that he could not gainsay a word his wife had said, for they were all true. Luckily he thought of Jane.

"Well, how much do you suppose Jane will have left when New Year comes? If she got sick how long could she pay for such care as you have?"

"It is not likely she will lay up many dollars out of $100 a year; but she is laying up something better, I think. Last winter she sent her mother a warm shawl and a pair of shoes, and to her brother and sister new school-books, and the warm, loving letters they send her do her more good than twice the amount of money in the bank would. This year she is laying away a number of useful and pretty things for them, and if any misfortune should happen to Jane they would only be to glad to help her."

"Well, who do you suppose would help you if you needed help?" said Mr. Jarvis, for want of a better question. Mrs. Jarvis' eyes sparkled angrily as she answered:

"Nobody. If you should lose your property to-day, I should be a beggar, without a claim on any one for help. You have always held your purse-strings so tightly that it has been hard enough to ask for my own necessities, leaving others out altogether. Many a time a dollar or two would have enabled me to do some poor man or woman untold good; but although you have always said that all your property was mine, I never could and cannot now command a dollar of it."

"Lucky you couldn't, if you wanted to spend it on beggars."

"Donald, you know that I would spend money as wisely as you do. Who was it that only last week gave a poor, lame beggar $5 to pay his fare to Burton and then saw him throw his crutches away and make for the nearest saloon? Your wife could not do worse if trusted with a few dollars. You say that the money is all mine, yet you spend as you please, while I cannot spend a dollar without asking you for it and telling what I want it for. Any beggar can get it in the same way! Christmas you bought presents for us and expected us to be grateful for them. A shawl for me, the very color I cannot wear, a set of furs for Lucy that she did not need, a drum for Robin that has been a nuisance ever since, and a lot of worthless toys that are broken up in a week. There were $40 or $50 of my money just the same as thrown away, yet when I ask you to trust me with $2 a week you cannot imagine what use you have for it, and fear it will be wasted. I am sure I cannot spend $50 more foolishly if I tried to."

"Well," snapped the proprietor, "I guess it is my own money, and I can spend it as I please. I guess you'll know it, too, when you get another present."

"Oh, it is your money then. I understood you to say it was all mine, and so pretended to protest against your spending it so foolishly. If it is your own, of course you have a right to spend it as you please, but it seems to me that a woman who left parents and brothers and sisters, and all her friends to make a home for you among strangers, a woman who has given her whole life to you for fifteen years, may be looked upon with as much favor as you give to beggars, who are very likely to be impostors. I know that you seldom turn them off without help. Perhaps I would be more successful if I appealed to you as a beggar. I might say: 'Kind sir, please allow me out of your abundant means a small pittance for my comfort. It is true I have enough to eat, and do not suffer for clothing; but although I work for my master from morning till night, and if his children happen to be sick, from night till morning again, yet he does not pay me as much as he does his cook, and I am often greatly distressed for want of a trifling sum which he would not mind giving to a perfect stranger. The other day while he was away from home I had to go the next station to see a dear friend who was ill, and, not having $1 of my own I was obliged to borrow the money from his cook. I was so mortified! And not long since the berry woman came with such nice berries to sell, and my little girl, who was not well, wanted some very badly, but I had not even 5 cents to pay for a handful for her. Yesterday a friend came to ask me to assist in a work of charity. It was a worthy object, and I longed so much to give a little money for so good a purpose, but though the wife of so rich a man I had no money. Of course I might ask my husband for money, and if I told him about what I wanted of it, and he approved of my purpose and was in good humor, he would give it to me, but, sir, it is terribly slavish to have to do so, even if I could run to him every time I wanted anything. People say I am a fortunate woman because I am rich; but I often envy the factory girls their ability to earn and spend their own money. And sometimes I get so wild thinking of my helplessness that if it were not for my children I think I would drop into the river and end it all.'"

"Nettie! Nettie Jarvis! What are you saying?" cried the startled husband at last, for the far-away look in her eyes as if she did not see him, but was looking to some higher power to help her, touched his pride if it did not his heart, for he had a great deal of pride in a selfish sort of way. He was proud to be able to support his family as well as he did. He was proud that when his children needed new shoes he could tell his wife to take them to Crispin's and get what they needed. He did it with a flourish. He was not one of the stingy kind; he liked to spend money; and when Nettie, who was once the most spirited young lady of his acquaintance, came meekly to him for a dress or cloak, he was sometimes tempted to refuse her money just to show her how helpless she was without him. Yes, he was proud of his family, and wanted them to feel how much they depended upon him. He would have felt aggravated if any one had left his wife a legacy, thus allowing her to be free in her purse. The idea of her earning money, as his other work-folks did, never entered his mind. He "supported her," that was his idea of their relations! He never had happened to think that it was very good of her to take his money and spend it for the good of himself and children. He never had thought that any other woman would have wanted big pay for doing it. He had even thought himself very generous for allowing her money to get things to make the family comfortable. Things began to look differently to him just now. Could it be that he was not generous, not even just to his wife? Had he paid her so poorly for her fifteen years of faithful labor for him that if she had been obliged to begin the world for herself that day it would have been as a penniless woman?

How fast he thought, standing there at the office window, looking down at the little houses where the mill hands lived. Could it be that he was not as good a man as he thought? He had felt deeply the wrongs of the slave, whose labors had been appropriated by their masters, and when a negro who had worked twenty years for his master before the emancipation freed him came to Jarvis' mills friendless and penniless, the heart of the proprietor swelled with indignation at such injustice. He was eloquent on the subject at home and abroad, about how and one could be so cruel and selfish to commit such an outrage against justice. He had called him a robber many a time, but now Donald Jarvis looked to himself very much like the old slaveholder! Massa Brown had taken the proceeds of Cuffee's labor for his own without even a "thank you" for it. True, when Cuffee ate he had given him food, when he was sick he had given him medicine, and he had clothed him, too, just as he himself thought best. Mr. Jarvis had married a lovely, conscientious woman, and for fifteen years had appropriated her labors. Her recompense had been food and clothes, such as he thought best for her, a little better than Cuffee's, perhaps, but the similarity of the cases did not please him. He had expected his wife to be very grateful for what he had done for her, but now he wondered that she had not rebelled long ago. Had his life been a mistake? Had his wife no more money or liberty than Cuffee had in bondage? Was Donald Jarvis no better than Massa Brown?"

His brain seemed to be in a muddle, and he looked so strangely that his wife, anxious to break the spell, took his arm, saying, "Let us go home, dear; tea must be waiting for us." He put on his hat in a dreamy way and then walked home in silence. The children ran joyously to meet them. The yard was so fresh and green and the flowers so many and bright that he wondered he had never thanked Nettie for them all. Hitherto he had looked upon them as his, but now he felt that his interests in them was only a few dollars, that would not have amounted to anything without his wife's care. His children were tidy and sweet, and everything around and in the house had that cheery look that rested him so after the hard, dull day at the mill. They sat again at the table that had been a source of comfort and pleasure to him for so many years, and he wondered how he could have enjoyed it so long without even thanking the woman who had provided it. True, she had his money in bringing it all about, but how else could his money be of use to him? What else could have turned it into just what he needed for years? And he began to have an undefined feeling that it took more than money to make a home. He glanced at his wife's face as he buttered his last slice of bread.

It was not that of the fair, rosy bride whom he had brought to the mills years before, but at that moment he realized it was far more dear to him, for he knew that she had given the bloom and freshness of her youth to make her home what it was. His daughters had her rose-leaf cheeks, his sons her youthful beauty, all had her cheerful, winsome ways, and comforted him now as she had in those days when, hardly knowing what care meant, she had lived for him alone. And a new thought came to him: "Who was comforting her now when she had so much care?" Was not that what he had promised to do when he brought her from her old home? He sighed as he thought how far he had drifted from her while in bondage equal to Cuffee's. Nay, he felt that her chains were far more binding than any which had ever held the negro, and that his obligations to her were so much the greater.

Something called the children out of doors, and Mr. Jarvis took his easy chair. His wife came and stood beside him. "I fear you are not well, Donald; are you displeased with me?"

He drew her into his arms and told her how her words had showed him what manner of man he was, and there were words spoken that need not be written, but from that day forth a different man was proprietor of the Jarvis mills, and there was a brighter light in Mrs. Jarvis' eyes, for at last she had something of her own, nor has she regretted that she "applied for wages."

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—The Eliza Anderson will make another excursion next Sunday to San Juan.

—Mr. Humber is making 24,000 bricks per day and says he don't half try.

—A two mile race for boys at the roller skating rink to-morrow night.

—Three applications for licenses came before the Nanaimo licensing court, and were refused.

—Miss Westwood, of Mountain district, is ill with typhoid fever in this city. The attack is not a heavy one.

—Mr. H. F. Heisterman announces himself a candidate for trustee in the event of a vacancy.

—The Olympian brought one hundred head of cattle and thirty-three hogs for Van Volkenburgh & Co.

—The election expenses of the Hon. Simeon Duck at the recent election were $136.50, and those of Mr. R. T. Williams, $90.45.

—The new residence for Bishop Segher's will be the handsomest building in Victoria. Its cost will be somewhere in the neighborhood of $27,000.

—The Masonic Grand Lodge for British Columbia will hold its annual session in this city, beginning at 2 p. m., to-morrow. A church parade on Sunday.

—Dr. Tolmie has sold the handsome young grade shorthorn bull "Beebow" to Mr. John Parker of Fort street and Rocky Point.

—Mary Davis, who only got out of the cooler on Saturday, was again run in this morning, on a charge of vagrancy. She was found drunk and disorderly on Yates street.

—The St. Paul Pioneer Press of the 12th says that the Northern Pacific took out a party of thirty settlers ticketed through to Victoria, B. C., on the day previous.

—A telegram has been received at Nanaimo from Mr. D. W. Gordon, stating that the Alberni mail contract has been awarded. About twenty tenders were sent in, some as low as $75 per month.

—Mr. A. W. Ross, M.P., for Lisgar, has declared to a London Advertiser reporter that British Columbia has the finest climate of any country in the world. He predicts a big boom at the end of the track this fall.

—A large quantity of liquor is said to be sold to Indians by Chinamen between Nanaimo river and Chemainus. The matter will be represented to the government and the appointment of a policeman asked for.

—Rev. J. Chisholm, of Nicola Valley, the newly appointed Superintendent of Missions for the interior of British Columbia, is a native of Pictou county, N. S., a graduate of Queen's and a tried pastor.

—The Colonist, in announcing the appearance of its Weekly, says: It contains from one to three days later news than any other Victoria weekly." This is a delicate untruth, on a par with the "exclusive dispatch" falsehood.

—Mr. Robert Scott, overman of the Wellington No. 3 mine, received a telegram from Carbonado, W. T., stating that his son, John Scott, had died from injuries received in the mine. Another son was killed in the same way about two years ago.

—The survey of the Nexeastle townsite is about 120 yards out, thus placing a number of the lots in the channel. R. Heywood, C. E., has discovered the error and is unable to proceed in laying out the main street until the mistake is rectified. The government has been asked to have the error righted.

—Letters are detained for postage addressed to: Mrs. B. Joseph, Sooke; G Luchesi, Lenkims, W. T.; British Empire Mutual Life Ass. Co., Montreal; J. H. Innes, Esquimalt; R. Camillo, Nanaimo; Mrs. M. Eggleston, Portland, Or.; Alex. McIntosh, Portland; Wohing Chong, Walla Walla; Mr. Shaw, Yale.

—The Colonist just now is engaged in the congenial task of misrepresenting Victoria. Between its exaggerated and untruthful statements about the sanitary condition of the city, published some months ago, and its equally false and sensational reports about the prevalence of gambling, people at a distance will conclude that Victoria is a good place not to go to. The bird is a dirty one that fouls its own nest in that way.

—A new difficulty has been discovered in the way of the lease of the Oregon Railway and Navigation line to the Northern Pacific, or any other road. There is no authority under the laws of Oregon for the leasing of railway tracks, a law preparing to meet this express case having failed to pass the last legislature. This will probably result in the substitution of a traffic arrangement for the lease, and in the prompt completion of the Cascade branch.

—Senator McInnis says the contract for the Port Moody round house has been let. Mr. Homes, M. P., says it has not been let, and that all operations have been stayed for the present. "You pays your money and you takes your choice." They are two honorable men, and we have tried hard to believe them both. But it ended in failure and now it is a serious question with us if we can ever again put faith in princes, politicians, or real estate boomers.

—Lord Elphinstone, while on his way to Australia, was the guest of Mr. George Stephen in Montreal. He compares Canada as a field for settlement with those semi-tropical countries very much to the advantage of the former. He thinks the climate of Australia has a most enervating effect upon Europeans, while that of Canada is adapted to produce men of very fine type, both physically and mentally. Nowhere in Australia and New Zealand did he find such a region of cultivatable wheat, growing land as there is between Winnipeg and the Rocky mountains.

—A blue book giving the returns of the mortuary statistics of a number of the principal cities of the Dominion, has been received. It says: "The eleven cities first invited to put the system into execution have sent their returns for the whole year, 1884, with the exception of Victoria, B. C., which so far has not joined her sister cities." The department should be informed that our city, not wishing to be excelled by any other in the Dominion, is waiting for its new sewer system before beginning to report its mortality even to government.

—The Olympian brought freight for the following: Abwell & King, Welch R & Co, W Craft, D Spencer, C Strauss, Turner Beeton & Co, Hutcheson Y & Co, J B Ferguson & Co, York & Lenz, W T Wood, Marvin & Tilton, H Short, J H Todd & Son, C J Mitchell, J Sears, E G Prior, G Hadden, R B Carmichael, J Burns, Thomas Earle, J Crawford, G B Weight, Carne & Munsie, J & J Flett, A Boss & Co, H B Co, D McKenzie, A W Huson, S J Pitts, Coughlan & M, R Jewell, H Short, J H Todd & son, Matthews B & T, John Weller, Thos Dunn, M Levy, M W Waitt & Co, Van Volkenburgh & Co.

PERSONAL MENTION.

J. R. James, The Dalles, and Thomas W. Jenkins, Portland, Or., are guests at the Oriental.

H. Bognard, Bozeman, Mon., Walter Cooper, Helena, Mon., John Wilson, Kingston, and James Jost, Halifax, arrived at the American to-day.

Mr. James Daley, the affable and energetic secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in this city, will shortly resign his position to return to his home in New Zealand.

Mr. R. H. Brown and wife, after an absence of a number of years, during which their home has been in Oregon, have returned to reside in this province. Mr. Brown was for many years a leading, enterprising and successful miner in Cariboo, and well known by old timers from one end of this province to the other. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Brown welcome them back to this province.

Passengers by the Olympian: S Trunch, J Bedford, J King, W Cable, S John, R H Brown and wife, T Webb, M Colvin, B F Briggs, J W Jenkins, H Griffiths, M Adair, W H Hepburn and wife, P Hoggins, S F Beecher, E McCormack, F McLean, T Mason, wife and child, J R James, O F Woodruff and wife, W D Dimmack, T D Merrill.

MARINE NOTES.

The ship Belvidere completed her cargo of coal at Nanaimo to-day and left for San Francisco to-day.

The ship Melrose, 994 tons register, and the ship W. H. Macy, 2092 tons register, have been chartered at San Francisco to load Nanaimo coal for that city.

Fourteen sailing vessels arrived in the Sound from foreign and coastwise ports during the week ending June 13th. Of these three were for cargoes at Port Gamble, two at Utsladdy, one at Port Ludlow, four at Seattle, two at Port Blakely, one at Tacoma and one at Port Discovery.

A survey of the ship Spartan which collided with the tug Tacoma, has been held. Her keel aft for about fifteen feet was found to be twisted on one side, and a piece of it forward gone. A great portion of her copper was off, and the planking in places showed signs of hard rubs. Between $5000 and $10,000 will be required for repairs.

POLICE COURT.

(Before Edwin Johnson, Esq., S. M.)

Cecilia Nelson, a Fort Simpson Indian woman, admitted to having been a "little drunk" and was fined $5.

Wm. McMullen, arrested on suspicion of having committed a burglary in James Bay last month, was discharged. Supt. Bloomfield stating that there was no evidence to connect him with the theft.

Hibbs, the Defaulter.

It is said that the act under which Hibbs, the defaulting Lewiston postmaster, was arrested was some time ago repealed. But the prosecutors are indifferent as to how they got their man; the main point was to get him and having got him securely confined in the Bastion street cage, they are not going to enquire into the legality of the arrest. It was expected that the prisoner would have appeared before Mr. Johnson this morning; but there was a "change of venue" and the argument will be heard before Judge Gray, possibly to-morrow. The U. S. Attorney-General says the offense is extraditable, and Postmaster General Vilas will use every possible means to have Hibbs brought to Idaho and counsel for the American government will arrive in a day or two to assist in the prosecution. The government is said to have proof that he forged the names of several persons to money orders on which he realized money. With some of our legal men there are grave doubts that the U. S. government will be able to make out a case that will come within the extradition treaty. But if they cannot do so, it will only be another illustration of the great necessity that exists for reciprocal trade relations in frauds and embezzlers of all kinds between the two countries.

In the Supreme Court, before Mr. Justice Crease, Mr. T. Davie applied on behalf of the prisoner that the matter be tried immediately. Mr. Walls, on behalf of the United States government, opposed application on the ground that his evidence was not complete and he was waiting for papers from Washington. The judge adjourned the hearing until Wednesday next at 11 a. m. Mr. Davie then applied that the prisoner be admitted to bail on the security of the money in the hands of the gaoler, amounting to over $10,500. His Lordship declined, intimating that the prisoner might give leg-bail.

A Burglar at Work.

The residence of Mr. A. Allan, in James Bay, was entered by burglars last night, sometime between the hours of one and three o'clock. An entrance was effected by the window. The clothing of Mr. Allan was searched and about fifteen dollars abstracted from the pockets. The noise made by the burglar roused Mr. Allan, who might easily have captured the thief, but he was under the impression at first that it was one of the occupants of the house, who was moving about. The burglar, when he thought he was about being captured, made a rush for a window, which he had left all ready for a hurried exit, and getting through in a twinkling, made safe his retreat. The police are endeavoring to discover the thief, but in the absence of any distinct clue it is possible the thief will escape altogether.

A Sub-Port Wanted.

On the 16th inst., while the British barque Lady Head was beating down the straits a head wind and tide, compelled her to run into Port Angeles for shelter, and not finding a tug there the captain was informed by order of the customs collector, who had just arrived in a revenue cutter, to report at the Port Townsend office immediately. If a sub-port of entry were established at Port Angeles it would be a great convenience, especially now with the increase of shipping. The port possesses a splendid harbor and if once established as a port of call its nearness to Victoria and Royal Roads, and the fact of its being in the path of all in and out bound shipping in the Straits of Fuca would cause it to be a matter of especial convenience.

Nanaimo Trustees.

The trustee election in Nanaimo was contested in each of the three wards of the city. The result of the ballot was as follows:

Middle Ward—43 votes cast. W. L. Jeffrey, 27 votes and E. Quennell 22 votes, elected. South Ward—9 votes cast, T. Morgan, 7 votes and R. Aitken, 6 votes, elected. North Ward—16 votes cast. W. Gibson, 15 votes, and M. Manson, 9 votes, elected.

The Weekly Times.

The WEEKLY TIMES is issued this morning. It is a large, eight-page paper, filled with all the foreign and provincial news of the week, brought down to the latest hour before publication. It is the best, cheapest and most reliable weekly newspaper in British Columbia. Subscription price, one year, $2.

"Lex," a Modern Gamaliel (?)

One would imagine judging from the supercilious manner in which "Lex" refers to THE TIMES in his letter, which appeared in the Colonist this morning, that the bellows was blown by the veteran editor of that journal, as the premises are incorrectly set forth. In this instance THE TIMES is convinced that the editor did not write a letter to himself, but that "Lex" is a person who wishes it to be considered that he is the shining light of the bar. In arrogating to himself that erudite position it would be expected that he would have quoted in support of his contention a case applicable to the point at issue. Any layman turning to the case of Attenborough vs. Thompson, as quoted by "Lex," can at once satisfy himself that it has no bearing on the required residence for a right of franchise. The case given as authority arose out of a dispute as to the description of the residence of the attesting witness to a Bill of Sale, and is entirely foreign to the law regulating residence for electoral purposes, and properly so. THE TIMES is certain that this modern Camaliel would not attempt to establish before any one of our learned Judges the position he has taken in this instance, by the authority he has been careless enough to quote. We will mention the interpretation given by the Minister of Justice for the Dominion on the meaning of the word resident which was brought before him on appeal in 1883. The case was McMillan (chief of police in Brandon, Man.) vs. others on what constituted residence. The Minister of Justice held that it is the place where one is domiciled or where one is in the habit of sleeping. THE TIMES further informs "Lex" that its mission is not to bring suit against any one or more voters (that would be too good a thing for lawyers in general) but simply in such cases to point out where mistakes have been made, or where errors have occurred. We are of opinion that even some legal gentlemen have made a mistake in the matter, from not examining the requirements more closely.

FROM THE BIG BEND.

Silver-Bearing Quartz Found—Miners Going into the Country—Gossipy News.

From a correspondent who left McCulloch creek, Big Bend, on the 8th inst., we learn that twenty-three miners are mining and prospecting in that locality; one prospector had found excellent specimens of silver-bearing rock, pronounced rich by experts. The snow had not all disappeared so that it was difficult to get about. Our informant left Adler's Landing on a raft and came down the Columbia to Farwell in four hours, when going up a short time ago the same distance occupied 5 days. Joe Lyons and four others were met going up to the mines. At Farwell it is said that Mr. Sproat, S. M., is doing a good business in the way of taking in coin for the government, and that Mr. Kirkup, constable, is a most efficient officer. That officer was detailed the other day to take a prisoner to Kamloops, who was committed for murder; and to be sure of his man during the night, slept in the same blankets, chained to the prisoner. Our old townsman Mr. S. Adler proposes establishing a store at Farwell. The B. R. bridge at this point was to be open for travel on the 15th inst.

On the 14th inst. an excursion party arrived on board the steamer "Peerless" at Eagle Pass; among the guests were Hon. John A. Mara and wife, Mrs. Capt. Troupe, Mr. Irving, Deputy Attorney-General, and several others. This growing town consists of about thirty houses, in the majority of which liquor is sold on the quiet. It is found that eastern men ask for western liquors, and the smokers among them say give us "Kurtz' Own" or "Opera." Railroad work is being pushed forward vigorously.

An Unsuccessful Burglary.

The premises of Mrs. Médana, on Simcoe street, was feloniously entered last night. The bedroom of Romolo Medana was visited, and in searching around for something of value, the young man was awakened. The burglar took his departure in a hurry, and carried off a pair of pants in his hands. Having searched the pockets and found $1.75, he threw the pants in the yard, where they were found in the morning. A ring was carried off, and a set of studs, but nothing further of value is known to have been lost. The thief is probably the same one that visited Mr. Allan's residence, the two attempts being made about the same time.

Shadows of a Great City.

This melodrama, which will be presented by the Baldwin Company at Philharmonic Hall on Monday evening, is the great dramatic success of the season, having been played to crowded houses for six consecutive weeks at the Baldwin Theater, San Francisco. The cast is a powerful one, including Lewis Morrison, George Osborne, L. R Stockwell, Ada Deaves, and other well known actors. Our theater goers may expect a dramatic treat.

—A report has reached the city that a man named Purser, a farmer on Salt Spring Island, at Fulford Harbor, committed suicide last Wednesday night, by shooting himself. The cause is assigned to despondency owing to ill health.

For constitutional or scrofulous catarrh, and for consumption induced by the scrofulous taint, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the true remedy. It has cured numberless cases. VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

(While the columns of THE TIMES are open for the discussion of questions of public interest, to correspondents, it must be understood that it does not necessarily endorse, nor coincide with, the sentiments expressed by writers in this column.)

A Suggestion for the Government.

To THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—Now that St. David and Slippery Charley have succeeded in getting themselves into the principal school board of trustees in the province, I would suggest that the government round off their work, and the school system at the same time, by appointing the two to be examiners of Public School Teachers at the approaching examination. The one would be found very useful in distributing the examination papers among favorite candidates, before the examination, the other would be found equally useful in palliating the act and in assisting to get the job done safely. Of course a good deal of lying, and even of perjury, might have to be done, but no doubt the two between them would manage to get out "with flying colors" of any scrape into which they got themselves in consequence. I make the suggestion more willingly, as I understand the government are at a loss to find suitable persons ready to do the dirty work that will have to be done at the teachers' examination next July.

WATCH DOG.

Victoria, June 19th, 1885.

"Lex and Trustees."

To THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—Is "Lex" in this morning's Colonist the M. P. P. who drafted the bill covering the election of school trustees? a statute of about 14 pages, the whole of which could have been condensed into seven pages, and then cover many important matters that have been entirely overlooked. For example: When two candidates for a ward are elected by acclamation no provision is made to determine the one that shall be senior member of the board; and, therefore sit two years. This of course is doubtless an oversight, but "Lex" should not parade his law too much as he did in this morning's paper. Another very necessary clause is omitted! No Justice of the Peace acting for the district in which there is an election for school trustees, shall be eligible as a candidate. If there is an objection to this clause then by all means have a clause that no Justice of the Peace, a candidate for the position of school trustee, shall be allowed to witness the registration of voters in the ward or district in which he intends to run. This is highly important. We have an excellent example before us in the late election whereby a candidate for Yates street ward being a Justice of the Peace, secured his own election. LA REFORM.

On Temperance.

VICTORIA, June 19, 1885.

To THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—A temporary dweller in your beautiful and growing city, my attention has been called to the very quiet manner in which many of the saloons are conducted. So far I have witnessed no disturbances and have visited the majority of them during my stay. I find that the "Blue Ribbon" organization is making strong and persistent endeavors to close saloons and bar-rooms; and although a strong advocate of temperance I am entirely opposed to compulsory or sumptuary laws. The city of Seattle has suffered greatly from the actions of the "crank" element, so much so that her treasury has been depleted to an alarming extent during the past year. Business has in consequence of the ultra proceedings of the crank, or apple orchard brigade, experienced such a collapse as will require years to revive. Now, Mr. Editor, for the sake of the prosperity of your fair city, would you not be well for the abstainers to use moral suasion rather than advocate coercion? The history of all countries, and in fact of all ages, goes to prove that stimulating drinks have been concocted and sold, and as long as the world revolves on its axis so long will strong drink be used. That your local laws are potent enough to stop all riotous proceedings in drinking houses is proved by the great quietude observable by any casual resident, and as the license paid by the proprietors of such institutions forms a very prominent portion in your city finances, it seems to me that, under the present restriction of your city government, the business had better be looked on as legitimate—which it really is—than crushed out, in order to please a certain number of fanatics. The old adage says, "What can't be cured must be endured," and while all admit that strong drink is an evil, that drunkenness is a greater, and that the human race would be better, purer and nearer what the Great Creator designed them to be, without it, still the knowledge that liquor will be manufactured, sold and drunk as long as time shall last, or till the millenium comes, the better plan to prevent its too frequent use would be, it seems to me, to deal fairly and quietly with it as with any other evil. In these times of progress and independence of thought and action, prohibition cannot be operative. It would be better for the Blue Ribbon party to go along in the even tenor of their way and show by their good living an example worthy to be followed rather than attempt compulsory means.
